ADVISORSHIPS

- Provided as Visiting Fellow for military technology at the Heritage Foundation expert advice on technical defense equipment and military land and air, and naval technology;
- Gave expert advice on military strategic, operational, and tactical issues;
- Served as a consultant in Heritage’s efforts to analyze military technology and weapon systems’ capabilities;
- Provided expert advice on Russian, U.S. and international energy security issues at the Heritage Foundation as Energy Researcher;
- Have given expert advice on fighter air defense and beyond visual range (BVR) air-to-air combat, on naval surface and submarine warfare, and on tank warfare;
- Have provided expert advice to the national security and defense team at the Heritage Foundation on the guided-missile destroyers of the Arleigh Burke and Zumwalt classes;

- Have provided expert advice about the U.S. fighter aircraft gap, the Russian PAK FA stealth fighter and the Chinese J-20 stealth fighter for the national security and defense team at the Heritage Foundation;
- Gave briefings with Mackenzie Eaglen of the Heritage Foundation on the Russian stealth fighter for the U.S. House of Representatives Air Force Caucus and at the Air Force Association before an audience that included members of the Pentagon, analysts and members of the aerospace industry;
- Provided expert advice on the future of the U.S. Army regarding units, weapons, operations, and hybrid warfare for the national security team of the Heritage Foundation;
- Provided expert advice on military strategy, and on air and naval power including weapon systems, concerning a potential Peruvian military threat to the Ecuadorian naval and air force attachés and air force deputy attaché at a business lunch held at the restaurant Filomena Ristorante in Georgetown, Washington DC;
- As a training effort for the purpose of exercising my analytical skills, wrote in a voluntary fashion and out of my own initiative between 1997 and 1998 15 unpublished papers in Spanish on the balance of military power between Peru and Ecuador. Some 150 pages in double-space and single-space papers were produced;
- Emphasis was given to the balance of air power and naval forces of Peru and Ecuador, considering also potential armored warfare scenarios between the two countries;
- Possible modernization schemes of military equipment and weapon systems were analyzed, with particular emphasis on air warfare and naval weapon systems. Russian and French-made combat aircraft of Peru were studied in contrast with Israeli, French and Franco-British fighter aircraft from Ecuador;
- The 15 papers produced following an open-sources intelligence research and analysis approach were donated to the naval, air force and army attachés of the Ecuadorian embassy in Washington, DC, being informed afterwards that all my papers were sent to the Ecuadorian general staff in Quito for their evaluation;
- It is possible recommendations that were made in 1997 on the modernization and upgrade of the Ecuadorian Air Force Kfir C2 fighters to the Kfir 2000 (Kfir CE) version were taken into consideration and implemented accordingly;
- Wrote in 2004 an analytical paper published online on the balance of air power between Hungary, Slovakia, Serbia and Rumania;

- Made recommendations on how the Hungarian Air Force's fighter fleet could defeat a triple air threat posed by the combined air forces of Rumania, Serbia and Slovakia if one day it would materialize;
- Prior to its publication online the paper was presumably given through contacts to a retired Hungarian Air Force chief of staff;
- Possibly a recommendation that was made in the paper to maintain in service Hungary's force of modernized MiG-29 fighters after the induction into service of the more modern Swedish JAS-39 Gripen fighters was heeded, to redress the numerical disadvantage of the Hungarian Air Force vis-à-vis its neighbors, for the MiG-29 fighters were retained and not retired, as it was originally planned after the more advanced Gripen fighters entered into service.

TRANSLATION ACTIVITIES

Have conducted written translations from Spanish to English for Professor Richard C. Thornton of The George Washington University, and from English to Spanish for Dr. Juliani Gatzoulis on behalf of the 1997 Microcredit Summit, for the parish of St. Anthony of Padua, and for a private customer. Translated in 2007 and in 2009 brochures and a press release from English into Spanish for the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC), and did some translations for the owner of the Chilean mining and metals industry firm Lum & Ver. Successfully performed a translation test in 2011 from English to Spanish of part of a contract, translating legal and commercial terms, for Legaco LLC, a legal translation company.
